New Global Guidelines For Safe Working During COVID 19

ISO/PAS 45005

COVID-19 has fundamentally shifted the way people live and work. As organizations start to rebuild, capturing the lessons learned as the phases of the pandemic progress is crucial. Whilst economic considerations are important, the fundamental principle of protecting human life underpins all economic recovery. Organizations must adapt quickly, adopt new working practices and meet new regulations as they embark on a revised course for their "next to normal". ISO/PAS 45005 gives guidance on embedding best practices and will help to manage the risks arising from COVID-19 with reference to work related health, safety and wellbeing.

Who Will Benefit From ISO/PAS 45005

The guidelines are useful to organizations of all sizes and in all sectors, including those that have been operating throughout the pandemic; those resuming, planning to resume or reoccupying workplaces following full or partial; and those new and planning to operate for the first time.

Benefits Of Using ISO/PAS 45005

- Provides a single source of good practice based on current knowledge.
- Supports comprehensive risk assessment. Provides practical examples of ways of managing risks.
- Enables planning across multiple sites and for many types of workers.
- Helps to manage the risk of communicable diseases and can reduce sickness absence due to seasonal and other illnesses, such as common colds, influenza, and gastric illness.
- Assists in developing a response plan to enable rapid adjustments if risk levels or operating restrictions change at short notice.
